Wise Health: Lessons for the PCWG in reaching vulnerable communities
(Brittney Doyle/Jeff Newman)

- WISE Health is a senior health solutions agency based in the Bayview district in San Francisco, CA.
- The program is designed to develop and improve health behaviors such as: physical activity, diet, tobacco, sexual health and approaches to address health disparities among vulnerable populations (e.g., low-income population, racial/ethnic minorities, immigrant, prison, and/or homeless).
- The goal is to increase the capacity for community mobilization as well as innovative and effective health programming for communities in need.
- The program provides senior health services, community health services and academic health services.
- Target settings are in the San Francisco Unified School District, childcare centers, after school programs, faith based institutions and clinics to increase physical activity opportunities.
- Community Care Pop up, where you go into seniors sites and housing to provide health services, case management services, activities; healthy foods etc.
- Partner up with other organizations such as JOBS NOW to help students i.e. nursing students, medical students with experience working with seniors in the community.
- Connecting seniors with care givers and special services they might need.
  Most popular workshops are Making Grandma's Medicine
  Community Health Pop-Ups (a mix of education and activities)
- Open Door Legal is a service that Wise Health use for seniors legal matters.
- Provide educational workshops to educate the children of seniors.
