

Homeward Bound Relocation Services

Are you currently experiencing homelessness or housing instability in San Francisco and would like to reconnect or reunite with family, friends, or support system in another city?

The San Francisco Human Services Agency (SFHSA) may be able to provide financial assistance to help you travel by bus or train to anywhere in the United States where there is a safe place for you to stay. SFHSA can also help with:

- Making travel reservations
- Communication with destination family/support system
- Food assistance during your travel

Please call the number below, stop by the CAAP service counter at 1235 Mission Street, or speak with your CAAP eligibility worker if you are interested in this service. A social worker in at 1235 Mission Street will help you with arrangements.
